PPP String Implants

I feel it's just as well we have our own thread devoted to Polypropylene (PPP) String a.k.a. Silly String implants here.

Here's a page to get you started:
<https://www.facebook.com/pages/Polypropy...712919908#>

Read the link to Dr. Johnson's research and opinions on the technique he developed. It was truly remarkable and was unfortunately only available for 2 1/2 short years but nonetheless has had an incredible impact on the world of enhanced breasts.

Models who had them installed:

Chelsea Charms (2500) grew to 15,000, currently at ~10,000

BB Gunns (3500) grew to about 7000 and then retired in 2002

Minka (2500) has them, but they never really grew much

Melonie Charm (2700) has them and they grew to about 5500

Sable (2000) had to have them removed early due to complications

Elizabeth Starr (2500) still has one, the other breast has a saline implant in it that matches the size

Kayla Kleavage (3000) had hers removed in 2004 and replaced with smaller saline implants.

Phoenixxx (3500) same story as Sable Holiday. Reduced to a C cup

Maxi Mounds (2500) We're not quite certain...but she has retired

Teddi Barrett (2000) Still has them. The 54 year old got them in 2000, and grew to about 3000 where she stabilized, then had another youngster at 45 years of age and lactated for about 6 years afterwards, due in part to the PPP implants.

The only ones from the above, who still have them, are Chelsea, Minka and Melonie Charm. And Teddi Barrett. I'm not totally certain about Maxi Mounds.

I'll try and post follow-ups of each model with a picture, and a bit more of their stories. I encourage you to do the same!

Skepticism is good, it is the reason why Science progresses. We don't live anymore in the era when a model said she had a 183PPP bra and that was considered a fact by the rest of the mortals.

No, not the only ones. There were 100 test subjects. Most of them were housewives and professional women who wanted a boost and thought the new procedure would be safer than bags of silicone and saline. They were right about that!

However, within a week of the procedure, without exception, most implants had grown and the "D Cups" were now G Cups" and they couldn't get clothes to fit... and of course some faced gthe same medical problems that had plagued Phoenixxx and Sable Holiday.

The uncontrolled expansion was too much for most of these women and within 6 months more than half all subjects had had the PPP implants removed. However, it is believed that nearly 30 of the subjects still have them. And many have speculated Nancy Quill might be amongst them.

Got some sort of documentation to back up Quill was part of that group? I imagine her tits would still be growing if so. And I'm not sure that's the case.

I don't have any documentation on it, JS, just repeating the speculation (rumor) that's been discussed on other forums. I think the evidence is photographic only. She has very slowly gotten larger since 1999 - the only period of PPP implantation. It would stand to reason, so I buy into the theory!!

Thanks for your list, Bonecracker! Very informative.

Also, your theory about Ms. Quill could very well be true.

It is fascinating to think about possible unknown MILF housewives out there with Chelsea-size string implants. If only they'd go crazy in a mid life crisis and start a nude tumblr blog!

RE: PPP String Implants

As of a little over a year ago, Melonie Charm still has hers. I actually spotted her in the small town where she lives in Upstate NY while me wife and I were rambling around on back roads during a vacation. We had stopped at a little eatery and she came in to pick up a carryout order. I was speechless!

RE: PPP String Implants

I for one am a big breast man, and I admit I love it. 😊

I don't know why that is. There's something about them that just fascinates me-the shape of them, the way they look, the way they feel just enthralls me.
I think it's the nature of them-the idea that, unlike men, women have these soft, delicate, round 'bags' attached to the front of their models kinda fascinates me.
But the sight of the really HUGE ones takes that interest up to a whole new level. I see women with simply ENORMOUS breasts and at the back of my mind I think "Every single square inch of those huge round things are attached to that woman! She can feel every detail of them, feel how soft and heavy they are, their weight and sensitivity, and even though they are just EXPANSE she is phvsically part of them!"

(Sorry if that comes across has a bit juvenile and immature, but I couldn't think of any other way to put it!).

Of all the big bust models that I've seen over the years, I think that by far the best ones (or pair) that I've seen has to be Minka's.

Her's are, to me, one of the best examples of extreme breast enhancements I can think of. When you look at them during the later part of her career (when she was at her biggest) every think about them was just right-the shape of them, how round they are (not too spherical), they are still soft and gentle to touch (I've seen footage of this on DVD's to confirm this), and her nipples are just in the right place, with almost no scaring.

Chelsea Charms is also another example of this, in my opinion. Although her's do look more rounder then Minka's, and her nipples could be just a little more positioned I think she has done an okay job, and although obviously fake the 'design' of them (has it were) is actually not bad. (For the record, I still think that she is the biggest. I know that there are a few other contenders out there-Maxi Mounds and Beshine, for example-but to me in terms of shear SIZE she is the biggest! They are literally the size of BASKETBALLS).

And although much smaller then Minka, both Pandora Peaks and Sarena Lee are also good examples of how to do a boob job properly, and for the same reasons-they're evenly shaped, nicely rounded (not too round) with the nipples in just the right place.

BUT, has some people have already pointed out here, although some models like Minka, Chelsea, Pandora and Sarena have done a good job others, however, have not-I (like most people here I imagine) can think of at least a few models who, despite their best efforts, having not got the procedure quite right-when you look at the results they look slightly out of shape, or the nipples are a bit too droopy,etc.

Which I think is a bit of a shame, seeing how much effort they've put into it (it is a medical operation after all, and can be quite expensive too sometimes). So, all in all, I personally think that it's okay for a woman to have implants if she wants (even really huge ones if necessary) because it is her own body after all, and she should be free to make her own decisions.

BUT, the most important thing (for any women reading this) is make sure the end results are done PROPERLY and PROFESSIONALLY by a SKILLED surgeon.

Wouldn't we all like to meet a woman, fall in love with a woman, be in a happy relationship with a woman who shares our breast passion and would want to have boobs that big?

I'll see what I can do. You don't realize what it took to get the one with her 650's out of her. 😊

I swear she took 90 web cam snapshots and that's the only one she would let me use.
